SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL STABBED TO DEATH.

HANCHETT CONFESSES
THE HEINOUS CRIME —
SHERIFF SMITH BROUGHT HIM TO DAYTONA TO ESCAPE MOB.

In the middle of the road between Deland and Daytona, the body of a seventeen-year-old girl, Cleve Tedder, daughter of Harry Tedder, was found about Saturday evening. The body was discovered by a colored man who gave the alarm, and Sheriff Smith was summoned from Deland to the scene of the tragedy. The first point to a colored man, but Sheriff Smith took up the trail of the footprints which led to a home nearby. He entered the house and found a white man, who was lying on the floor with his bloody clothing. The sheriff dragged him out and on searching further discovered a bloody knife in one of the man's pockets. The sheriff was sure that he had the right man, and in this case a mob of fifty armed men gathered and howled for the prisoner in jail was the man. Finally the prisoner was taken through a back door and sent to Deland by a deputy sheriff. In the morning Sheriff Smith told the men that he was arresting Hanchett on suspicion and did not believe he was the man, but that if they would stay by him he thought he could catch the man. The mob accompanied the sheriff on the supposed search until about four o'clock yesterday morning when the Sheriff returned to Deland and taking the prisoner from the jail brought him to Daytona in an automobile, and left in the afternoon train for St. Augustine, where Hanchett was lodged in the St. Johns County jail for safekeeping.

Hanchett confessed his guilt to Sheriff Smith while in Daytona yesterday, and when asked why he committed the crime, replied, "She got too fresh."

The crime was one of the most revolting in the annals of Volusia county, the girl having been stabbed to death in less than sixty places.

It is presumed that the body had been lying in the road no longer than ten to fifteen minutes when discovered by the negro who gave the alarm.

Hanchett has the looks of a country boy and is probably not over eighteen years of age. He was brought to Deland some time ago by a winter resident of that place who took him out of the State Reformatory of New Haven, Connecticut.

The girl was returning home from the postoffice and store on her bicycle and had a can of kerosene and her father's mail in her hand at the time and from the confession of Hanchett, he grabbed her and dragged her to the ground and immediately commenced to stab her and continued until her body was literally nothing but a continuous wound.

The populace in the vicinity of Deland and Deland Springs did not learn until last night that the prisoner had been spirited away by Sheriff Smith, and last evening an armed band of 400 men approached

"AL" RUSSELL, BOWERY KING, IS NO MORE.

DIED IN NEW YORK LAST WEDNESDAY — LEFT DAYTONA TWO WEEKS AGO LAST SATURDAY

"Big Al" Russell, known as the Bowery King, died in New York last Wednesday. Russell spent some time in Daytona, accompanied by a physician, and left here only two weeks ago last Saturday. While here he was a guest of the Prince George, and, although a sick man at the time his death was not expected so soon. He made up his mind to return to New York and during the trip contracted a cold which hastened his death. Russell, whose real name was Albert, started his career as a bootblack but gradually climbed upward until he became a power in New York politics. He was a philanthropist of considerable note and a friend of the homeless and unfortunate.

ALLEGED MURDERER OF AGED WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR LIFE.

LETTER WRITTEN ON CRUMPLED PAPER THE STRONGEST EVIDENCE AGAINST CLINTON ST. CLAIR.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Feb. 14—The case of Clinton St. Clair charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary E. McIntosh, was called for trial today. Mrs. McIntosh, an aged recluse was found murdered in the little cottage where she lived alone on the morning of Jan. 21, last. Her body was terribly mutilated. The woman was reputed to be rich and robbery is supposed to have furnished the motive for the crime.

On the day after the murder the police found a letter addressed by Clinton St. Clair to a friend in Stillman Valley. The letter was written on some crumpled paper which was recognized as having come from Mrs. McIntosh's home. St. Clair at first asserted his innocence, but when confronted with the tell-tale letter he is said to have confessed that he killed the woman, thinking the $1,000 she was known to possess was kept in her house. Subsequently he repudiated the alleged confession and when arraigned in court pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder.

EIGHTY YEARS OF AGE; WALKS THIRTY MILES

Charles Lott, of Warren, Pa., who is spending the winter in this city, is making for himself a reputation as a pedestrian that many a younger man might be proud to equal.

Mr. Lott, one day last week walked to the light house at Ponce Park, a distance of fifteen miles, and returned, making at least thirty miles to his credit that day and Saturday he walked fifteen miles in five hours time.

Mr. Lott will be eighty years old on the 12th day of next August. He is in perfect health and attributes it largely to the exercise he takes of which walking is, he thinks, the very best form.

Miss Addie L. Haynes, who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Curran, on First avenue, and others, left last week on her return to Elmira, N. Y., via the Merchants & Miners steamship line to Baltimore.

BLACK-HAND AND OTHER ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

By C. G. BURGOYNE

At the request of the Daily News Commodore Burgoyne gives his views of the Black Hand letter, and, incidentally, of anonymous letters generally. — Editor.

I think the Black Hand letter was not a hoax. The writer, as the earmarks of the communication indicate, is anything but a foreigner. The composition, barring the capitalization and punctuation, is the product of a fairly intelligent American. Consequently, I conclude his object was to recoup his fortunes by terrorizing the writer. I attribute his failure to the publicity the Daily News gave his letter.

After all, it is, perhaps, for the best that Daytona's first "scare" was tried on a man who is not altogether a stranger to the methods of people who deal in "black hand." I refer to the anonymous correspondent. It seems to me that if publicity will make a black hand letter fall flat, it will make an anonymous letter writer feel like a joke to know that the recipient is hurt so badly that he is willing to share his hurt with the whole world.

It is borne in upon me that the "veiled" correspondent has been a feature of this locality for many years. Several persons admit receiving such letters, but decline to share their contents with their friends. With me it is different. I feel very liberally disposed towards my neighbors, and am always willing to share my literary "treasures."

As it is not unlikely that some of our citizens have never read an anonymous letter, and, that I may properly impress "Antonia Zuzza" and "One Who Knows," and others of like ilk with the fact that they are barking up the wrong tree by favoring me with their efforts, as well as to regale your readers, I reproduce a letter which I received nearly five years ago. I was in New York at the time. The stars eliminate language that is not printable. This letter was not written by a black hand. The hand is distinctly feminine.

Here it is:

Daytona, Fla., June 13, 1905.
C. G. Burgoyne, Waldorf-Astoria, New York:

"Well, brute, you had better stay away, as all Daytona hate you. You have let your vile temper rage so often that people are tired, and because you have a little money, don't think you can do as you like. High-minded people are not influenced by money, and they hate a baby like you are that is always eating crow. People accept, at least some do, your hospitality, if such one could term it. But I think it beggars description. * * * That wife of yours * * * looks and acts like a washerwoman. She thinks she is stylish but she looks like a freak. * * * I needn't go in detail. You know where you belong. You helped to steal money from the auto club. The town is alive yet with rage over your actions with Mr. Steck. His old sock is too good for you to step on. We all know it was a jealous rage that prompted you to be an ass. You found some one who could go far beyond you—you couldn't stand it any longer. Your old boathouse will be dynamited to your surprise as well as your house, and that homely wife of yours will go too. * * * Stay away until a year or two and let things settle down. No one misses you and it is a blessed relief. You are dubbed brute by old and young, and a boer and a 'bull in a china shop.' You are a dandy (?) ONE WHO KNOWS"

The foregoing is in about the usual style of anonymous letters. They, like black-hand letters, are harmful. (Continued on fourth page)

MRS. ROOSEVELT TO JOIN HER HUSBAND IN AFRICA.

WILL SAIL TOMORROW FROM NEW YORK ON THE HAMBURG FOR HER LONG JOURNEY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—All preparations having been completed for the departure tomorrow on the Hamburg-American liner "Hamburg," of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who will sail for Naples, to join her husband in Africa after his return from his hunting expedition. The Hamburg is the same steamer on which ex-President Roosevelt and his oldest son, Kermit, sailed on March 23 of last year, on their way to upper Egypt.

According to reports received from East Africa lately, ex-President Roosevelt will arrive at Whartoum, the capital of the Egyptian Soudan, on March 15, from Gondokoro by the monthly government steamboat. The journey down the river from Gondokoro to Whartoum takes eleven days. After remaining two or three days at the hotel in Whartoum, where he will meet Mrs. Roosevelt, Mr. Roosevelt will travel across the desert, thirty-six hours by sleeping car train, to Wadi Halfi, at the second cataract of the Nile, where a stern wheel steamboat will convey his party to Assouan and the island of Philae, at the first cataract.

At Assouan there is a railroad via Luxor, which carries the traveler to Cairo in twenty-four hours, or mail steamboat may be taken down the Nile, stopping at the principal points. This trip occupies a week. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, with their son, Kermit, will stop off at Abu Simbel, Edfu, Denderah, Thebes, Luxor, Beni Hassen and other points along the Nile on their way down to Cairo to examine the ancient temples and ruins of the great cities of the Pharaohs.

Americans usually leave Cairo by the beginning of April for Rome, Florence, Constantinople, Athens of the Holy Land, but this spring the hotel keepers have had many late reservations made in that month by people who intend to stay there and wait for the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt and family, who are expected there about April 3rd.

SEVEN BIG ENTRIES ALREADY FOR THE BIGGEST EVENT OF THE RACING WORLD.

Within one week after the first announcement that the Daytona Beach automobile speed carnival would be held on the 22, 23 and 24 of March, entries of seven famous cars have been assured and the formal entries will be made as soon as the official blanks are off the press.

Thus a greater number of real racing cars are already guaranteed for the coming meet than were actually here during last spring's races. Barney Oldfield and his 200-horse power Hemmery Benz, which travelled faster on the Brooklands, England, track than did Marmjott with his steamer over our sands in 1906, heads the list, of course, but a formidable array of cars to be driven by favorites in the space annihilating sphere follows. David Bruce Brown will drive the same 120 Benz with which he swept the boards last year, and Ben Kerscher, who was mechanic for Brown, will pilot the Darracq, with which Hemmery won the Vanderbilt Cup race, and which was afterwards driven on the Daytona Beach by Samuel B. Stevens, of Rome, N. Y., millionaire sportsman. Kerscher has been making racing history with the fast Darracq, during the latter part of the season and a week ago, in New Orleans, defeated Ralph De Palma and his famous Fiat in a ten-mile race.

Emile Stoecker, a noted German pilot, will handle the 60-horse power Benz, which is supposed to be a marvel of speed in the stock car classes. Fred Shaw, or another driver will be at the wheels of two Knox cars, one of them the six cylinder with which Oldfield won four races at the New Orleans races in the stock car events. The other Knox will be a four cylinder, known as the "Giant."

The seventh car is a four cylinder Pope-Hartford which E. H. Hotchkiss brought here for the purpose of showing the aspirants for stock speed honors a thing or two.

The newspapers from the Atlantic and the Pacific have carried a large amount of telegraphic news matter about the coming meet, as a result of the Associated Press story which went to one thousand papers throughout the country a week ago. All over the world, wherever the automobile is in use, the Daytona Beach meets have always been looked upon as the speed classic of each season, and it is only the fact that the two cars which are looked on as being fast enough to break Marriot's record, were tried out on the Brooklands course before being brought here, that enabled England to capture honors for the fastest mile.

There is every reason to believe that after the March races the mile record will be placed so low here that it will never be broken on any course in the world, except on our beach.

An active publicity campaign was begun this morning by the press committee of the Automobile Club, and from now on until after the races news stories will be sent twice a week to over three hundred daily papers all over the United States.

PROGRESSIVE NEW SMYRNA

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man raneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by hoary forest giants that grew in state-ly grandeur during the lapse of by-gone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accommodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile. Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicer. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO
Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional garb, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and islands, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

HAWKS PARK
A pretty village located along the ridge above the Indian River two and one-half miles south of New Smyrna and connected with fine shell roads. There is the appearance of newness, comfort and seclusion about the place which stamps it as the abode of people who come here to enjoy the blessings of outdoor life away from places where crowds are apt to gather.

DELAND, THE ATHENS OF FLORIDA

DELAND, the county seat of Volusia County, is situated 23 miles southwest of Daytona and is reached from the latter city by an excellent hard-surface road recently constructed.

At DeLand is located the John B. Stetson University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South. Because of the interest in matters educational DeLand is known as "The Athens of Florida."

Stetson University has a faculty of 50 professors and instructors. There are over $400,000 in buildings and equipment; nearly $300,000 endowment; a Carnegie Library alone representing an investment in building, endowment and books, of more than $120,000. The library is the United States Government depository for the State of Florida, and contains over 15,000 volumes. Science Hall, one of the newest of 16 buildings, with its furnishings, represents an outlay of $60,000. Elizabeth Hall is one of the most beautiful college buildings in the South.

The city has a population of about 3,500, with a thickly settled country adjacent. DeLand proper is five miles east of the St. Johns River, on the high, rolling pine land of the great "Orange Ridge" of Florida.

The predominating products are oranges and grapefruit, the estimated crop from this vicinity being over 300,000 boxes this year. Grapes, peaches, pears, Japan persimmons, plums, pecans, guavas, strawberries and other fruits are grown in plenty.

In the way of public improvements are many miles of fine shell roads, an excellent high school, electric lights, a system of waterworks that is owned and operated by the city, supplying the purest water at little cost.

Nine houses of worship testify that DeLand is a church-going community. Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists (Northern and Southern), Presbyterians, Christians and Catholics, besides colored Baptists and Methodists, are represented.

The graded school offers a ten years' course, and the building which it occupies is newly furnished throughout, and is one of the most commodious and best equipped public schools in the State.

The trip from Daytona to DeLand is made by automobile in a little over an hour, and there are many pretty drives in the vicinity of the county site. A good road leads to DeLeon Springs, five miles, a historic spot, where 60,000 gallons of water bubble from the earth every minute.

From DeLand automobiles go south to Osteen, 18 miles, on shell and marl roads; the St. Johns is crossed by ferry near Osteen and cars can then continue to Sanford and Orlando by hard road. There is a shell road from DeLand to Orange City, five miles, and a good road from DeLand to Lake Helen, a like distance.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL STABBED TO DEATH.

the jail with a firm purpose of stringing Hanchett to a convenient tree. Deputy Sheriff Gross, who was in charge of the jail at the time, invited a committee to examine the jail and satisfy themselves that the prisoner was not there. This they did and not finding the murderer, the gathering dispersed.

While the men who assisted in the search can hardly be blamed for wanting to mete summary justice to the fiend, Sheriff Smith is to be commended for protecting the prisoner and giving the law an opportunity to take its course. It is likely that Judge Jones will call a special term of court to try Hanchett.

The Tedder family is one of the most prominent in the western part of Volusia county and the crime has caused intense feeling against the murderer.

I am not committing a "breach of confidence" by publishing this letter, as half the town read it in the original years ago.

6,000 MILE CHASE FOR NOTED MURDER SUSPECT.

AFTER TRAILING AN ARMENIAN FROM ONE CONTINENT TO TWO OTHERS HE IS FINALLY ARRESTED.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 14—Two officers of the Massachusetts State police have left Boston for Bucharest, Rumania, to bring back Vahan Nalbandian, a young Armenian, who has been sought for several months, charged with the murder of Minas M. Monjian in Lynn last summer. After a chase of 6,000 miles Nalbandian was arrested last week in Roumania.

The chase for Nalbandian began last July, after he had been indicted for murder by the Essex County Grand Jury. The police traced him first to New York, thence to England, and then through Germany. On several occasions foreign officials, acting through instructions from Lynn were ready to lay hands on him only to find he had disappeared.

For several months Nalbandian kept working South through Europe. The police lost trace of him, and then relocated him at Alexandria, Egypt. Through an acquaintance of the Lynn chief of police, who had been in Alexandria, the chief got in communication with a mission priest in that city and persuaded him to keep Lynn in formed as to Nalbandian's movements.

The priest followed Nalbandian to Silistria in Bulgaria. Here Nalbandian evidently thought himself safe, for the police learned that he had started a small clothing store there. The Lynn police were beginning to despair of again getting track of the murder suspect when they received a cablegram stating that he had been arrested while visiting Alexandria, Roumania. The Massachusetts authorities lost no time in getting extradition papers and despatching two officers on the long journey to bring back Nalbandian to answer the charge of murder.

A peculiar feature about the case is that evidence against Nalbandian is almost wholly circumstantial. Monjian, the victim of the tragedy, met his death in a Lynn rooming house in which both he and Nalbandian lived. Monjian's body was found in a trunk in his room with a bullet wound in his heart. Nalbandian was missing. The police found that Monjian had several hundred dollars, which also disappeared.

As a result of their first investigation into the death of Monjian the police came to the opinion that the man's death was accidental and that Nalbandian had sought to hide the body and then fled through fear. The men were friends, and had been seen chatting pleasantly shortly before the tragedy. Nalbandian had a good character in Lynn, but the police subsequently learned that he was a member of an Armenian secret society and they believe that this may have had something to do with the murder, if robbery did not furnish the motive. One of the mysterious features of the case was the fact that the bullet which killed Monjian has never been found. It was neither in his body nor in the room.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE DESTRUCTION OF THE MAINE
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The anniversary of the destruction of the Maine in the harbor of Havana was observed today by members of the various organizations. Special services were held as in former years about the big anchor of the battleship Maine which marks the entrance to the section where many of the victims of the explosion are buried at Arlington.

Wells In India.
 The question of wells in India is complicated by the coexistence in each community of two castes—the purer Hindoos and Gonds on the one hand, the weavers on the other. No weaver may draw from the well of the Hindoos lest it be defiled, nor will the Hindoo drink from the hands or the well of a weaver. Thus it becomes necessary either to dig two wells or to depute a certain number of the Hindoo element to give water to their less exalted fellow villagers.

Almost Human.
 "Oh, George," tearfully exclaimed his wife, meeting him at the door, "that parrot you brought home the other day?"
 "What's the matter with him?" asked Mr. Ferguson.
 "I don't know. He won't tell me. When I ask him what the trouble is he just swears dreadfully."—Exchange.

The Chinese Burglar.
 "The Chinese burglar is the most difficult to nab," declared Lecoq, the detective. "I might say he is impossible to nab. When this yellow scoundrel goes burgling he goes naked and covered with oil, and thus he is as slippery as an eel. But you say, why not nab him by the pigtail, hey? The answer to that is that his pigtail is done up in a knot on top of his head and stuck full of needles and hatpins with the points turned outward. You often see a Chinaman in Pekin or Shanghai with his clothes stained with oil and with tiny red pricks all over him. He's been having trouble with a burglar."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE BIG APPLES ON TOP.
 The other day a man came to my door with some apples he was selling from a wagon.

"Are they all like those in your hand?" I asked.

"Yes, sir; all of them."

"Then you may bring me a bushel."

Profiting by past experience with this man, I went down cellar when he made the delivery. The apples on top in his measure were fully up to sample, but when he poured out the remainder, somewhat shamefacedly, they were discovered to be small and knotty.

I said to him: "My friend, why do you try to deceive people in this way? Those are not the sort of apples I bought of you."

The fellow flushed and grew angry, but finally laughed, saying, "Oh, they all do it!"

Whereupon I replied he was mistaken in his supposition that all men are dishonest. And I told him the story of a Michigan fruit grower.

This grower inscribed, together with his name and address, the following paraphrase of the Scriptures on every crate of his peaches, "By his fruit ye shall know him."

He packed three grades of fruit. And he made this standing offer: If you could find a second grade peach in a first class crate or a third rate peach in a second grade crate you could keep the entire crate free of all cost.

The result?
 One commission house in Chicago handled this man's crop for years, and usually his entire season's shipment was sold in advance.

He grew rich, proceeding on the theory that honesty is the best policy.

When I had finished the story my apple man appeared interested, but unconvinced.

I told him to take his apples back to his wagon, and nowadays when he drives past my house he whips up his team and looks straight in front of him.

Like many others, he believes that the ways that are dark are promotive of prosperity and that it is "smart" to deceive.

Business is built on faith, and when you destroy faith you destroy business. Since the time when the primitive merchants of Arabia invented drafts—and before that men have traded on promises to pay and to deliver.

Misrepresentation ruins trade.

But my apple man will never see it that way. He does not believe that honesty is the best policy, to say nothing of the ethics involved.

He cheats because he thinks it pays. But he is mistaken.

Might Be on One's Nose.
 "Don't get down in the mouth, old man," said the optimist. "Look on the bright side of things."

"That's all very well," mournfully replied the sufferer, "but what is the bright side of a gumbol?"

The Change From Black to Red.
"See that little woman who just went out?" remarked a Fourth avenue milliner to a customer. "Noticed that red hat, did you? Well, as a milliner and a person whose business it is to study the different characteristics of women I have watched her for two years. It has been a kind of study of the 'evolutions of a widow.'"

"Two years ago she came to me, recently bereaved, and had me make her a hat of deepest black. She was broken hearted and declared she would never again take an interest in the pretty things that women like to wear. A year ago she came again.

"Don't you think I might have the least bit of white in my new hat?" she asked.

"Yes," I said; "I think you might," and the hat was made. Three months later she came for another hat, and she stood for a little touch of lavender. Next she had a big white plume, and last week I made her that red hat. It just shows what time will do in lifting up a heart bowed down."—Louisville Times.

The Releaser.

If he hadn't been a dreadful bore and the hour wasn't so late it is quite possible the lovely girl would have refrained from the exercise of a strategic scheme, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Hark!" she whispered as he paused in the midst of a long winded description of his camping outfit.

"What is it?" he whispered in return. She smiled reassuringly.

"It's only papa. He must be offing the releaser."

"And what is the releaser?" "It's one of papa's ingenious schemes. Every night, at exactly 11 o'clock, he pulls up a brass chain that releases our brindle bull pup from his annex adjoining the kitchen; that's all."

And she laughed merrily. The caller glanced at the clock on the mantel. It indicated 10:57.

"I find I must go," he said in a slightly hurried manner. "And good night."

Punishment For Perjury.

Perjury is a crime more severely punished in Germany than in any other country in the world. Even an apparently trivial misstatement under oath carries a sentence of ten years in prison. Excepting murder, there are few crimes that carry as heavy a penalty as perjury. The German theory is that the entire system of jurisprudence rests on the respect for an oath administered under the forms of law and that this must be strictly guarded in order to secure the punishment of other crimes and insure justice in civil cases. Germany stands at one extreme and the United States at the other. Fewer people are punished in the United States for false swearing in the witness box than in any other country.—London Telegraph.

The Foolish Man.

"I see," said the landlady, "that a man in Ohio has got himself into trouble by marrying two women."

"Huh!" growled the bachelor boarder. "Just as though one wife couldn't make trouble enough!"—Chicago News.

Calmness.

Remember on every occasion which leads thee to vexation to apply this principle—that this is not a misfortune, but that to bear it nobly is good fortune.—Marcus Aurelius.

The Lure of the Arctic.
Polar life brings strange revelations. A man who is a model of amiability at home is a savage in those high latitudes, where Mother Nature and humanity seem bent on revealing their crudest characteristics. When a man goes to the arctic first he dislikes it. If he is caught there one winter he vows to himself that he will never repeat the adventure. Yet when he gets back home he discovers that the "white silence" has a compelling fascination. I have never known a man who could resist the chance to go again, even at a financial loss. After twenty years of experience, if another opportunity came to me, it is doubtful whether any consideration would prevent my taking up the work again. Once the charm of those long months of daylight, the mysterious deathly silence of those long nights, the white glare of that brilliant moonlight across trackless wastes of snow and ice, has been felt a man is unable to resist the siren call of the north that has become more to him than family, home, friends or money. Gladly he takes his life in his hands and fares forth again into those frozen seas.—Captain Edwin Coffin of Ziegler Polar Expedition in National Magazine.

Bear Ague.
"Speaking of 'buck fever,'" said a survey official, "reminds me of 'bear ague.' Never heard of it, eh? Well, I first encountered it in Wrangel narrows, Alaska, a number of years ago. We were on the old surveying steamer Patterson.

"Just as we rounded a point of land not more than 200 yards distant a big black bear was seen on the beach looking at us. Eight men took up rifles at once and were about to shoot when I told them to wait and fire all at once in a volley when I gave the order. They all took careful beads on the beast. 'Ready, fire!' I shouted.

"There was a rattle of musketry as the eight pieces were discharged, and every one looked to see the animal's death throes. There was the bear running up the hill as lively as a jack rabbit. Not a shot had hit him. Bear ague, that's all. Every man's hand was trembling so he couldn't hit a house. Buck fever's nowhere alongside of it."—San Francisco Call.

Her Vocal Selection.
A wedding was recently held which was of the fashionable kind, and there were all sorts of preparations and frills. Among the "features" was a song by a baritone singer of considerable local renown, and just what he was to warble was a matter of considerable discussion.

A little sister six years old of the bride took much interest in the program. "Sis," she said, "I want to sing at your wedding."

"No, dear; you can't sing," was the rejoinder.

"But I can, and I want to," she pleaded.

"What would you sing?" her father asked her.

"Heaven, Look With Pity!" was her rejoinder, and her father hasn't got over it yet.—Kansas City Journal.

Ladies First!
"Scratch a southerner and you find a knightly soul" might be said to be one of the morals of the Chicago Record-Herald story below. The second moral is reasonably obvious:

"What is the reason," began the irritated traveler from the north, "that the trains in this part of the country are always behind time? I have never seen one yet that ran according to its schedule."

"That, suh," replied the dignified Georgian, "is a mattah that is easily explained. It is due to southern chivalry, suh."

"Southern chivalry! Where does that come in?"

"You see, suh, the trains are always late in this country because they wait for the ladies, God bless them!"

The Patient Man.
Mr. Henpeck had hesitated a long while about doing this bold thing, but he felt that now was the time or never. "Dear," he said, in a very timid voice, "I wish you wouldn't call me 'Leo' any more."

"Why not?" demanded his wife explosively. "Leo is your given name."

"I know, my dear, but it makes my friends laugh when you call me that. I was thinking you might call me 'Job,' just for a pet name."—Catholic Standard and Times.

One Beauty of Classical Music.
Miss Gush—Do you like classical music, Mr. Sourdopp?
Mr. Sourdopp—Yes.

Miss Gush—Oh, I am so glad! Do you not find in it great inspiration, sublime thought and true beauty?

Mr. Sourdopp—Not exactly. I like it because no blithering idiot can beat time to it with his foot.

Matrimony Made Easy.
"Can a fellow marry comfortably on a salary of $500 a year?" asked the young man.

"Sure, he can," replied the sage of Sageville—"that is, provided he has saved his last year's salary and can get his employer to pay the next year's in advance."—Chicago News.

Not Games of Chance.
The Vicar—Is it true, Samuel, that your father allows games of chance to be played at your house? The Boy—There ain't no chance about it, zur—they all cheats!—London Opinion.

Circumstantial Evidence.
"De Villers has quit scorching."
"Machine all in?"
"Nope; he's dead."
"Oh, that doesn't prove anything."—Harper's Weekly.

Stanley Robinson, owner of the St. Louis club of the National league, is a wealthy St. Louisan, with other large business interests. He was formerly part owner of the Cleveland club.

John G. Milburn, one of the Standard Oil company's attorneys, is known as an authority on corporation law. He was president of the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo, and it was to his house that President McKinley was taken after he was shot.

Peculiar Superstitions.
The people of Kulu are extremely superstitious and go in extensively for demonolatriy. Many trees are held to be sacred and have tiny temples dedicated to them. The demons are popularly supposed to live at the tops of trees, and if a tree falls in such a way that it is possible to pass under it, as is often the case on the mountain sides, every man before going beneath the trunk will place on it a stick or stone to propitiate its guardian spirit. Certain streams are also sacred, and no one is allowed to wash dirty clothes in them. One year some strangers came into the valley and happened to pollute the water of a river in this manner. It chanced to be a year of extraordinary rainfall, and the people implicitly believe that the excessive rain was sent by the outraged "deota" of the stream as punishment. —Wide World Magazine.

The Medium.
"Papa, what is the person called who brings you in contact with the spirit world?"
"A bartender, my son."—Exchange.

LYMAN TWINS COMING

NEXT SATURDAY.

A new winner is the term used theatrically in proclaiming the success of a new theatrical venture, and it seems that the Lyman Twins who will be here next Saturday have a winner in both name and nature, for The Prize Winners their new musical play has been proclaimed more than a winner by press, public and everyone who have had the pleasure of seeing it, and indeed such is the case, for it bubbles with wit and humor and contains some of the cleverest side splitting situations seen on the stage in many a day.
A massive scenic equipment beautiful in color and lighting effects together with a handsomely dressed chorus is also a part of this remarkable comedy production which will appear at the Daytona Opera House next Saturday evening.

aid this cause may do so by sending five dollars to any member of the committee named in a recent issue of the Daily News.

MET WITH PAINFUL INJURY

BY EXPLOSION OF SHOT GUN

Harry C. Thompson, manager of the East Florida Telephone Co., had the misfortune to lose two fingers of his left hand by the explosion of a shot gun, while enjoying an outing with some friends on the Tomo-ka river, last Saturday.

Mr. Thompson had gone with N. A.
Rist and son, in Mr. Rist's launch to the Tomoka river where they were joined by the ladies of the party in their automobile.

While the others were sitting around the fire awaiting dinner, Mr.
Thompson took up the gun, a double-barreled shot gun of excellent pattern, and strolled into the woods looking for a squirrel.

Not finding a living target, Mr.
Thompson discharged the gun at a mark, when it exploded close to the breach, tearing off the ends of his little finger and third finger and breaking the middle finger.

Mr. Thompson was hurried to the Daytona Hospital and the wounded hand given necessary attention and he is now feeling as comfortable as could be expected.

There was no apparent cause for the explosion, as the gun was in good order and had previously been discharged several times.
